ASTON VILLA will lift the Midlands gloom and win the Milk Cup this season!

And the man who will spur Graham Turner's beleaguered troops to much-needed success is striker Andy Gray.

In an amazing sequence of Wembley successes, the former Scottish international has been part of a winning cup side in his first FULL season with each of his new clubs.

VILLA'S WEMBLEY

Reporter Anthony Hawkswell investigates the magic of one of football's true Wembley wizards...

Below: John Trewick — "not scared".

Gary Bannister — "not superstitious".

MILK CUP RIVALS ARE UNAFRAID

ANDY'S amazing Wembley wizardry holds no fears for the remaining teams in the Milk Cup.

Says midfielder John Trewick, whose Oxford side meet Aston Villa in the two-leg Semi-Final: "We're not scared of his record."

"All good things must come to an end and we're all determined to dump the former Scottish international and his club-mates out of the Milk Cup."

"It's uncanny, but success like that sometimes follows one particular player around during his career and there's no doubt Andy has made Wembley his second home."

"But we are desperate to put an end to the sequence and reach Wembley to lift the gloom of a dismal first season in Division One."

The former Newcastle and West Brom star's sentiments are echoed by striker Gary Bannister. His QPR side face the awesome task of beating three-times Milk Cup winners Liverpool before they can even contemplate Wembley.

Says the former Sheffield Wednesday and Coventry hot-shot: "Andy is great at getting people geared-up and giving players a belief in themselves. That's one of the reasons he's enjoyed so much success."

"But I'm not superstitious and I don't believe he's got any stranglehold on Wembley. "If we have to play them in the Final, his hoodoo wouldn't bother me. We'd just go out and play our normal game."

Gary is a great admirer of the former Everton and Wolves star and he says: "He's a smashing player. I'd love to partner him in an attack. He has an amazing ability to get the best out of those around him."

to win the League Cup.

● IT HAPPENED three years later when he scored the winning goal for Wolves against Champions Nottingham Forest in the League Cup Final at Wembley and helped pay back part of the amazing £1,469,000 transfer fee which made him the most expensive player in British football.

● IT HAPPENED two seasons ago following a £200,000 move to Goodison Park when Andy scored Everton's second goal in their 2-0 FA Cup Final victory over Watford.

Can soccer's mercurial happy wanderer keep up his amazing record this season with Aston Villa? All the indications say yes! It may have been a depressing season for Graham Turner's Aston Villa with League gates slumping to an all-time low and the former League and European Champions fighting a desperate battle against relegation.

But their Milk Cup form has been in marked contrast to their League fortunes.

Led by the bustling striker, Villa swept 12 goals past Fourth Division Exeter in two legs, three past Leeds, beat West Brom at The Hawthorns and then accounted for fast-improving Arsenal at Highbury in the Quarter-Final.

Now only little Oxford stand in the way of Andy reaching his fourth Wembley Final with three different clubs.

Above: Wembley wizard Andy snaps up the easiest of chances to score the winner for Wolves after a mix-up between Nottingham Forest's David Needham and Peter Shilton.
Right: Andy, the man with the Midas touch, celebrates with skipper Emyln Hughes and Mel Evans after the 1980 League Cup Final.

And if aggression, determination and enthusiasm has anything to do with it, Andy and his team-mates will be tasting Milk Cup cream this season.

DESTINY!

GOAL! Andy wheels round in delight after scoring Everton's second in the 1984 FA Cup win over Watford. And celebrates victory with fellow scorer Graeme Sharp.

EGYPT CLASH BREATHES LIFE INTO GORDON'S INTERNATIONAL CAREER...

GORDON Cowans has 'risen from the dead' to stake a dramatic late claim for a place in Bobby Robson's World Cup squad.

The former Aston Villa star has resurrected his international career following a sparkling comeback in England's match against Egypt earlier this month.

Recalled from his Italian club Bari to make up the numbers for the depleted squad, midfield ace Gordon — capped seven times in 1983 — played as if he'd never been away and marked his return with a goal in England's 4-0 stroll along the Nile.

And the fact he has pushed himself back into contention is a mark of his character and determination after the two horrific injuries which threatened his career.

Setback number one came at the start of the 1983-84 campaign when he broke his leg in two places during a friendly in Aston Villa's pre-season tour of Spain.

But the 27-year-old eased himself gently back into contention and last season his fortunes finally looked to be taking a turn for the better when he moved to Bari with Villa team-mate Paul Rideout in an £800,000 deal last June.

Gordon, who won a League Championship and a European Cup winners' medal at Villa Park, said of the move: "It's just the incentive I need to rebuild my England career."

"After so long with Villa, I needed a new challenge to inject some urgency back into my game and help my career lift off again."

But just as Gordon looked forward to a fresh start, fate dealt yet another shattering blow for the 27-year-old.

On his debut for Bari he broke his leg yet again and was expected to be out for at least nine months.

But in typical fighting fashion, he has recovered in double quick time and his form for the Italian strugglers since his return has been so impressive that even the England manager couldn't ignore his claims for an international return any longer.

He says: "Playing for England means everything to me. I was racked with despair when I was out of contention. I must have been horrible to live with."

"But for the first time since Zaragoza I am beginning to feel like the real me again. I don't have any problems either mentally or physically."

Robson himself is a great admirer of Cowans and gave a pointer to his World Cup thinking when he said after Gordon's comeback: "I certainly want to see him again."

"I like Gordon Cowans. He's suffered tremendously but he's over that now and getting back to the player he once was."

"He is one of those players who has caused me a ticklish problem. He's put himself in with a shout of going to Mexico."

NOBBY'S SON GETS A TOUGH UPBRINGING

Nobby Stiles and son John.

THE sweat-stained shirt, the unforgettable jig around Wembley and that famous toothy grin will be synonymous with Nobby Stiles forever.

While the former England World Cup Final hero will always cherish the memories of that incredible summer's day in 1966, he wishes some people would forget it.

His reasoning is simple. "I want my son John to be judged on his ability alone and not my achievements or reputation," says the West Brom boss.

"He's had enough problems during his short career already without people comparing him with me or reminding him he's the son of a former England international."

Catalogue

A list of injuries which read like a catalogue of disaster threatened to wreck the young Leeds player's career almost before it had started.

Taking up the story, Nobby recalls: "When he left school at the age of 17, John went to join Johnny Giles at Shamrock Rovers in the Irish League."

"I was in full agreement because Johnny is one of the best managers of young players I know, but sadly for John the 18 months he spent there were frustrating ones."

"First of all he had a hernia, then a bad cartilage injury and later developed asthma. But the setbacks didn't end there. When Nobby took John and his family to Canada, he picked up another injury which kept him out of action for another few months."

"Although he recovered and went on to play for Vancouver Whitecaps in the indoor League, it was a difficult time for him," says Nobby. "But I'm sure he's learned from it."

"He knows how tough it can be in this game and that you have to work hard to be a success. That sort of attitude will stand him in good stead at Leeds."

John seems to be winning his brave battle and the reward was rich earlier this month when he scored his first League goal for the Elland Road club in the 4-0 win over Stoke.

Delighted

It was a proud moment for father and son alike and Nobby says: "I was absolutely delighted for him because the lad's not had it easy."

"But I know he won't get carried away and will keep his feet firmly on the ground. As the saying goes, there's a long way to go."

That's my boy!

TWO of football's proud dads talk frankly about their soccer-mad sons ... and their battle to follow in famous family footsteps.

BRADFORD and Lisbon don't have much in common — probably about as much as the supporters of Celtic and Rangers, in fact.

Yet while the home of a tiny Second Division club and the capital of a soccer-mad nation are worlds apart, they do provide an interesting link.

It was in Portugal's famous Estadio Nacional that Steve Chalmers wrote himself into the soccer history books by scoring the goal which won the European Cup for Celtic.

And now, 19 years on, his son Paul is bidding to make a name for himself in the far-removed surroundings of Bradford.

The 21-year-old striker is currently on loan at the Yorkshire club determined to secure a first team future after failing to make a real breakthrough with Scottish giants Celtic.

Although, like father Steve, Paul has always found the goals easy to come by, opportunities to prove his worth at the highest level have so far eluded him.

As his famous dad explains: "It's unfortunate for him that Celtic always seem to be so strong in the strikers department. They've got at least four to choose from at the moment."

"But even though they've paid a lot of money for most of them, it's a little disappointing that Paul hasn't been given a chance because his record in the reserves was excellent."

"He's been the leading scorer for the past few seasons since he graduated from the Celtic Boys' Club, and last term he hit 36 in 34 games.

NO ROOM AT CELTIC FOR STEVE'S SHOOTING STAR...

"In fact ever since the day he first started playing competitive football for school and local teams, he's always been a prolific goalscorer. He certainly makes a better job of it than I did!"

Unfortunately for Paul, his progress was halted a couple of years ago when he suffered serious leg injuries in a car crash.

"That set him back quite a bit but thankfully he's fully recovered now and still banging in the goals," says Steve. "I just hope he has better luck at Bradford than he did at Celtic."

"I was very happy for him to move down to England because he's very keen to prove himself and the experience should be good for him."

"And I believe he'll probably be a lot better off down South where his name won't mean so much to people and they won't be comparing him with me."

SEE IT, READ IT, ENJOY IT IN YOUR ACTION-PACKED SOCCER WEEK! MATCH PROVIDES A DIARY OF THE FOOTBALL EVENTS THAT MATTER.

FEBRUARY 22 TO FEBRUARY 28

ACTION

● IT'S derby day on Saturday! Liverpool meet Everton at Anfield while Arsenal entertain Chelsea at Highbury and with all four clubs enjoying good seasons, the fixtures have added spice this time around. Should be a 'red' letter day for the home sides.

● ASTON VILLA might be a 'good thing' in the Milk Cup (see

Shoot-out! Top marksmen Ian Rush of Liverpool (left) and Everton's Gary Lineker come face to face in derby day action at Anfield on Saturday.

Pages 2 and 3) but their League form has been terrible and they meet another team in need of the points on Saturday when Ipswich are the visitors to Villa Park. Could be one worth watching.

● HOW embarrassing it would be for big-spending Manchester United boss Ron Atkinson if lowly West Brom — the side he once managed — were to come away from Old Trafford with a point or three on Saturday. It seems that a lot of people want big Ron to fail but Albion may not have a say in his future.

● DONCASTER ROVERS give the old Sunday football a spin when they entertain Yorkshire rivals Rotherham this weekend. Should put a few on the gate.

● FRIENDLY action on Tuesday at home and abroad as Celtic take on Manchester United at Parkhead while Wales travel to face Saudi Arabia. We know which game we would sooner be watching!

BIRTHDAYS

● MANY happy returns to the following stars of soccer: Saturday — Paul Brush, Ian Dawes; Sunday — Mark Goodwin; Monday — Paul Haylock; Thursday — Kirk Stephens; Friday — Trevor Christie, Wayne Clarke.

TV ACTION

● AFTER some terrific Sunday afternoon entertainment in the shape of Chelsea v Liverpool, West Ham v Manchester United and Liverpool v Manchester United, the BBC now proudly present... 90 meaningless minutes featuring Israel v England in Tel Aviv! England's World Cup 'warm-up' against the team Scotland struggled to beat 1-0 last month kicks off on Wednesday afternoon. See Daily Press for kick-off time.

PROGRAMMES

● JUST one programme fair that we know about this weekend and that's the annual Dagenham FC event, Victoria Road Ground, Dagenham 11am to 2pm.

CAMPAIGNS

● ENGLAND'S World Cup footballers and their manager Bobby Robson have joined forces with the Health Education Council in a no-smoking campaign. The aim is to persuade young smokers to kick the habit or better still persuade youngsters not to start. Soccer's stars will be putting their message over this week and in following weeks — right up to the Finals in Mexico.

TIP-TOP EVERTON

IT'S not often that I agree with the bookmakers, but I have to go along with them this time.

They've made Everton the new favourites to lift the title and they certainly look good bets to me — especially now their most influential player is back.

Even though Peter Reid has missed much of the season, his team-mates have managed to keep the Champions in touch with early leaders Manchester United.

He's the first to recognise the efforts of his colleagues and says: "They've done the hard work for me. I'm just here to add the final touches."

"The lads have done marvellously well to close the huge gap United had opened up and we've got to fancy our chances now."

Peter's long-awaited return to first team action came in the League encounter with Spurs at Goodison last month — and he celebrated with a goal.

But his delight almost turned to despair as he recalls: "After I'd scored, I almost handed Spurs the equaliser on a plate. I was so tired that I hit a back pass straight to John Chiedozie."

"Thankfully he didn't take the chance and we picked up the points. So hopefully after a frustrating few months maybe my luck's changed."

Let's hope so — for England's sake too.

CUR BLIMEY!

A DOG is a man's best friend — or so the saying goes.

But I don't suppose you'll see many nods of agreement in the Manchester City camp.

And striker Mark Lillis in particular will no doubt insist we're barking up the wrong tree.

That's because of an amazing incident which occurred during City's FA Cup second replay against Watford at Maine Road earlier this month.

Just as he was about to shoot for goal, a dog ran on the pitch and delivered a 'biting tackle' to rob him of the ball and City of victory in the Fourth Round tie. It's a dog's life being a footballer!

Saturday, February 1 to Friday, February 7

● SO that's what they mean by a right 'Royals' cock-up! It seems as though the bubble may have burst for runaway Third Division leaders Reading who were hammered 6-0 by Walsall. And I wouldn't be surprised to see Derby beat them to the title now.

● SAW just how much Bryan Robson means to Manchester United as their title hopes took another jolt with the 2-1 defeat by West Ham. 'Robbo' had put his team ahead and they looked in control until yet another injury forced him to limp out of the game.

● MAYBE it's taking a little longer than I imagined but I'm still convinced one of my early-season predictions — that unsettled Arsenal midfielder Steve Williams would return to Southampton — will come true.

● THE look of relief on the face of Aston Villa manager Graham Turner said it all. His struggling side had just beaten Arsenal to reach the Semi-Finals of the Milk Cup and there was no doubting the feelings of a man walking a managerial tightrope.

● WATFORD winger John Barnes surprised a few people and disappointed a few clubs when he announced his intentions to stay at Vicarage Road — even if he becomes a World Cup hero. But will he stand by that if the Italians start to make their money talk... again?

● THOUGH much of the credit for West Ham's success so far this season has gone to goalscorers Frank McAvennie and Tony Cottee, it was about time Phil Parkes got the praise he deserved for keeping the Hammers' FA Cup hopes alive against Ipswich.

● IT and raring to go. That was the headline which must have brought a sigh of relief to every England fan. It referred to Bryan Robson's speedy recovery from his latest injury setback — but please 'Robbo', no more scares!

For the love of Ada!

WELL I'd go t'foot of our stairs!

Yorkshire woman Ada Hewitt must be Barnsley's greatest fan. Who else would pay £100 to watch them play? In fact 52-year-old Ada got more for her money than that...

After taking up manager Allan Clarke's offer to become 'a fly on the wall', she spent a marvellous day behind the scenes at Oakwell.

An invitation to visit the dressing room before, during and after the League clash with Norwich had Ada enthusing: "It was an eye-opener!"

She also got to see the game from the dug-out and, when asked if she'd had good value for money, she said: "It was worth every penny."

In the absence of 'the victim' Allan Clarke, coach Eric Winstanley showed Ada the ropes and he said afterwards: "Although we tried to watch our language, a few naughty words slipped out but I'm sure Ada understood."

Ada joins (from left to right) Barnsley coach Eric Winstanley, substitute Calvin Plummer and physio Norman Rimmington on the Oakwell bench.

● I HAVEN'T seen many better defenders than Paul McGrath this season. And in the televised game against Liverpool, the Manchester United centre-back underlined what an improved player he is.

His composure and skill on the ball reminds me of his Eire team-mate Mark Lawrenson. And what a defensive partnership that would be in the First Division. It's just a shame England didn't secure their services before the Irish stepped in.

EIRE RESTORER

SURELY the Republic of Ireland could have found someone better qualified to restore the fortunes of their national team than Jack Charlton?

He's hardly got the sort of pedigree you'd look for in an international manager and his decision to turn his back on football last year also calls his attitude into question.

With a batch of candidates to choose from, it makes you wonder why they plumped for 'Big Jack' ahead of Bob Paisley, Johnny Giles and Liam Touhey.

In fact, if the original votes of the 18-man committee had been taken into consideration, the job would have gone to the former Anfield supremo.

But the result — which gave Paisley nine votes and the other three candidates three apiece — didn't stand and another ballot was held eliminating Giles and Touhey.

The result of the second vote was Charlton 10 and Paisley 8. Confused? Not half as much as me, I bet.

CLOBBERED

POOR Steve Whitton will want to forget the first day on loan at crisis club Birmingham in a hurry.

He'd only been at the club a matter of hours when thieves broke into his car and stole the clothes he'd bought for his month's stay in the Midlands.

Not quite the start the West Ham striker was looking for. Is there still a gypsy curse over Birmingham?

● SMART by name and by nature — that's Hartlepool chairman John Smart.

As a racehorse owner, he knows a good bet when he sees one and so when the bookmakers offered odds of 9-1 against his club winning promotion he acted like a shot.

He put £1,000 down and, with Hartlepool well poised at the top of the Fourth Division, he looks to be on a nice little earner.

Subbuteo — the game played all over the world — has chosen MATCH for this exclusive offer: 'Collect three tokens from Britain's top football magazine and we'll send you a Subbuteo team free!'

MATCH will print five tokens in all, the first of which appears below. Send in any three and you'll get your 'team, plus a free copy of the 1986 Subbuteo brochure. Teams will be chosen at random, though you may be lucky and receive your favourite side.

You can, of course, send for more than one team by enclosing the necessary tokens.

Yes, it's as simple as that. Each team is worth £2.50 but the only cost to you is 50p to cover postage and packing.

Full details of where to send your tokens will appear in MATCH dated March 8.

*Teams may not be in current strip.

Athens showdown

ATHENS awaits the Subbuteo Champions of Great Britain.

The ancient Greek capital is the venue for this year's Subbuteo World Cup between May 15 and 29 and Senior and Junior Champions from each of the four Home countries will compete with the best from more than 20 other nations.

But the long road to Athens starts this weekend with two regional finals — East of Scotland Final and East Anglia and South East England Final — on February 22 and 23.

Other important dates are: March 1/2 — North West England Final and West of Scotland Final; March 15/16 — Midlands and South West England Final; March 22/23 — Scotland Final and North East and North of England Final; April 4/5 — N. Ireland Final and Wales Final; April 12/13 — England Final.

The 1986 Subbuteo Championships, which have been further boosted by sponsorship from The Star national newspaper, promise to be the most exciting ever. Watch out for the latest results in MATCH.

HANDY

Chris Price — long service reward.

Alan Walsh — City slicker.

LEICESTER'S goalkeeping tradition is safe in the hands of youngster Ian Andrews.

Following in the illustrious footsteps of Gordon Banks, Peter Shilton and Mark Wallington was never going to be easy, but the 21-year-old is coping admirably.

He's been earning rave reviews all season and some are already tipping him to succeed former Filbert Street favourite Peter Shilton in the England side.

And while it might be a little early to predict a bright international future for the Nottingham-born number one, there's no doubting his tremendous potential.

Even though his side struggled badly during January — the Midlands picked up just one point from a possible nine — Ian picked up two star ratings to whip the country's cream in our monthly honours.

He pushed England defender Terry Fenwick into second place and headed a distinguished list of players which reads like a who's who of football.

Peter Beardsley, Gary Lineker, Ian Rush and Ray Clemence — to name a few — all had to take a back seat to the young 'keeper who might be the difference between survival and relegation for struggling Leicester.

Ian's keeping up a fine tradition

Crystal Palace giant achieved the highest average rating of the month — including two nine-star performances.

Micky recently announced his decision to quit at the end of the season, but if he maintains his current form 'Eagles' manager Steve Coppell will be keen to persuade him to stay.

The former Chelsea favourite finished ahead of a trio of players with an average of 8.00. They are Carlisle's John Halpin, Fulham's Paul Parker and Huddersfield's Paul Raynor.

● IN the Third Division, Bristol City striker Alan Walsh takes the honours.

The West Country club's leading scorer achieved the same average as Tristan Benjamin and Tommy Tynan but a trio of star ratings during January give him the edge.

● Players must have been awarded ratings in at least three League games for the same club during January to qualify.

Left: Micky Droy — a big month for the big defender from Crystal Palace.

Notts County defender Tristan has been instrumental in the 'Maggies' promotion push while Tommy is still knocking the goals in with remarkable consistency at Rotherham.

Behind them come Bury's Lee Dixon and Rotherham's Alan Birch who are closely followed by Mark Kendall and Terry Boyle — two men responsible for Newport's revival.

● LONG-serving defender Chris Price is the toast of Edgar Street.

With well over 300 League appearances for Hereford behind him, he's proving to be the club's most consistent player this season.

Three star ratings during last month put him ahead of Perry Groves and Kevin Hird who share the same impressive average rating.

Behind them come Dean Mooney of Wrexham, Colchester's free-scoring striker Tony Adcock and December's Division Four winner Trevor Morley of Northampton.

● DAVIE DODDS' return to form has coincided with Dundee United's recent assault on the Premier Division Championship.

The midfielder-cum-striker was the top player North of the border in January overcoming a strong challenge from Celtic tough guys Roy Aitken and Danny McGrain.

PLATINI'S STAYING PUT

EUROPEAN 'Footballer of the Year' Michel Platini finally put an end to speculation over his future when he agreed to stay with Italian giants Juventus for a further year.

His contract was due to end this season and a host of clubs including Servette, Paris St Germain and Marseilles, were keeping a close watch on the situation.

News of his decision is a terrific boost for European Cup holders Juventus for whom Platini has topped the Italian goalscoring charts for the past three seasons.

And it may now open the way for former Arsenal favourite Liam Brady to try his luck in France next season.

Rumour has it that Inter Milan's Irish midfield ace has been house-hunting in Monte Carlo — something to which Monaco and Marseilles have both been alerted, along with Brady's old club Arsenal.

Meade makes his mark

PORTUGAL: Former Arsenal striker Raphael Meade (left) hammered a hat-trick as Sporting Lisbon beat Académica 4-1 to stay within one point of their arch rivals Benfica.

Benfica kept their narrow lead by beating bottom club Covilha 2-0 with goals from Danish international striker Manniche and an own goal by Covilha 'keeper Martins.

BRUNO'S MEXICO HOPES CRASH

ITALIAN World Cup striker Bruno Giordano may be ruled out of manager Enzo Bearzot's Mexico plans following a car crash in which he was badly injured.

The lanky goal-getter who plays alongside Diego Maradona for Napoli, broke a shoulder in the Saturday night accident and may not be back in action until April.

His absence gives Paolo Rossi and Aldo Cerena an opportunity to confirm their positions in the Italian attack (see Mexico murmurs).

Mexico murmurs

MATCH brings you the inside stories from the World Cup camps with just 14 weeks to go before the big kick-off in Mexico...

WORD has it that Paolo Rossi is getting back to his brilliant best.

Rossi, of course, was the Italian hero in the 1982 Finals — scoring six goals, including a hat-trick against Brazil, as his country lifted the trophy.

And according to AC Milan's Swedish manager Nils Liedholm, Rossi can repeat the show in Mexico this summer.

Liedholm, the man who has nursed Rossi back to full fitness following a cartilage operation earlier this season, says that a succession of injuries have prevented the player from showing his best form over the last two years.

But the little striker has been in superb form for Milan recently — leading to him being recalled by Italy's national boss Enzo Bearzot.

Brazil be warned!

SO MUCH for the 'life' ban imposed upon Bulgarian goalkeeper Borislav Mikhailov...

Less than one year after the punishment was handed out, Mikhailov has been pardoned for his part in the brawl which marred last season's Bulgarian Cup Final... and recalled to his country's World Cup squad.

Still, it appears Bulgaria are going to need all the help they can get. In a friendly against East Germany in Mexico they went down 2-1. Biakov scored their consolation goal after 85 minutes.

PORTUGUESE winger Fernando Chalana is, I understand, making a late bid to reclaim his place in his country's World Cup plans.

The Bordeaux star was sidelined for six months after tearing a thigh muscle against Rennes earlier this season, but now he's back in contention.

One of Portugal's successes during the 1984 European Championship, Chalana says: "National team manager Torres has told me that, provided I can reclaim my place and play consistently well for my club, he will count me in for Mexico."

"It's a great incentive to know that he is still keen to have me in his squad."

PROGRAMME PARADE

VILLA KILLER

ASTON VILLA arrived at Fratton Park in confident mood.

Home team Portsmouth had lost their opening three matches — the latest a 5-0 trouncing at the hands of Nottingham Forest.

And when Villa's Gerry Hitchens gave his side the lead after just five minutes, defeat number four stared 'Pompey' in the face. But winger Peter Harris had other ideas...

Restored to his rightful position wide on the right following 90 fruitless minutes as an experimental inside-right in the Forest debacle, he proceeded to carve Villa up... and so wrote his name into Portsmouth's record books.

With half an hour gone, the home side were awarded a dubious penalty and up stepped Harris to equalise Villa's early score — beating goalkeeper Nigel Sims at the second attempt.

Six minutes later Harris tantalised full-back Peter Aldis before beating Sims with a superb left-foot drive.

It was the left foot again which brought up the hat-trick shortly following the interval, and when PORTSMOUTH fans will not look back on the 1958-59 season with too much relish. It marked the club's last appearance in Division One — 'Pompey' were relegated in bottom position with just six League wins and a meagre 21 points to their name.

But the night of September 3, 1958, is one they will want to remember...

The front cover of the programme from Portsmouth's history-making match against Aston Villa in 1958.

Happy Harris in five-goal blast!

5-2 but the day belonged to Portsmouth and Harris who, approaching 33-years-of-age, was nearing the end of his celebrated career.

Born close to Fratton Park, Harris finished his one-club career in 1960 with 479 League appearances and two Championship-winning medals to his credit.

PORTSMOUTH: Uprichard, McGhee, Hayward, Dickinson, Gunter, Casey, P. Harris, Gordon, Weddle, H. Harris, Newman.
ASTON VILLA: Sims, Lynn, Aldis, Crowe, Dugdale, Seward, Smith, Hitchens, Sewell, Myerscough, McParland.

8. They opened this season in record style (7)
9. Cascarino's club (10)
10. 1985's Third Division runners-up (8)
11. First British side to win the Fairs Cup (5)
12. Toshack took them briefly to the top in the early eighties (7)
13. Scottish club which sold Steve Nicol to Anfield (3)
14. Scotland outfit (8)

Tony Cascarino — name his club.

Frank Worthington — name his club.

SOLVE the puzzle by entering all the answers in sequence — starting at the top left and ending in the centre. Each answer is the name of a club side and the first letter of each answer is also the last letter of the previous answer. When you have answered each clue and every square is filled, re-arrange the letters in the grey squares to spell out the name of one of the world's top clubs.

ARTHUR'S STAYING AT DERBY

ARTHUR COX, manager of Third Division promotion chasers Derby, has agreed to a two-year extension on his current contract.

The decision means that the former Newcastle and Chesterfield boss is tied to the Baseball Ground club until 1989.

Wright's weighty woe!

Billy Wright — ordered to fight the flab and then loaned out to Chester.

DEFENDER Billy Wright — dropped and stripped of the Birmingham captaincy for being overweight — has joined Fourth Division promotion-chasers Chester on loan.

New controversial 'Blues' boss John Bond told the former Everton star that he must win the battle of the bulge and then promptly sent him to Sealand Road for a month.

It is the second time the former England Under-21 star has been in trouble over his weight. He lost the skipper's job at Goodison Park for being too heavy.

Royals' record

READING have splashed out a club record £82,000 for Brentford skipper Terry Hurlock.

And 'Royals' manager Ian Branfoot has warned that the spending spree may not be over. He says: "If the right player comes along we'll go for him."

"We have been after Terry for some time. He's a cracking capture and proves to the doubters that we aren't content with just Third or even Second Division football at this club."

The 27-year-old made more than 150 League appearances at Griffin Park after costing the club £6,000 from Leytonstone.

Terry Hurlock — snapped up by Reading.

WHO CARES?

Not me, says goal ace Craig

CRAIG MADDEN created a new Bury scoring record when he netted number 125 of his goal-laden career and then admitted: "I'm not bothered if I never get a chance to prove myself in the First Division."

The lower divisions' most prolific scorer (left) — regularly chased by the top clubs — overhauled the club's 51-year-old scoring tally against Bristol City earlier this month.

But still the big guns haven't come in with any real money and he says: "I'm resigned to never getting a chance of playing at the highest level."

"It used to annoy me. When I finished with 35 League goals in 1983 I thought someone might come in for me, but it never happened."

"I'd have loved the chance. My pedigree is good enough. Over the last five seasons I've hit the 20 goals mark regularly."

"Now there's no point worrying," says the 27-year-old, whose two goals against Reading blasted the Gigg Lane side into the FA Cup Fifth Round and a meeting with First Division Watford at Vicarage Road.

● Craig's 125th goal for Bury — his 11th of the League season — beat the Third Division club's record of 124 set by Norman Bullock between 1920-35.

Son shines at Forest

WELL done, son! That's what Nottingham Forest manager Brian Clough should be saying to his offspring, Nigel.

The exciting striker has been voted the Flat Uno 'Young Player of the Month' for January by a panel of top judges including England boss Bobby Robson.

Says the national supreme: "Nigel is a very skilful player — he holds the ball and leads the line well."

Nigel pipped the likes of West Ham's George Parris and Everton starlet Neil Pointon, and Bobby admits: "It's been a really good month for young players — a few have really come to the forefront."

The regional selections were: North East — Paul Gascoigne (Newcastle); North West — Neil Pointon; Yorkshire — Paul Raynor (Huddersfield); London (North) and East Anglia — Jason Doozelli (Ipswich); London (South) and South — George Parris; Wales and West — Roger Freestone (Newport).

● That's my boy! Top dads talk about their sons on Page 5.

Smith moves

OLDHAM boss Joe Royle has signed former Rangers and Brighton striker Gordon Smith from Manchester City for £5,000. The star had been on loan at Boundary Park.

■ SWANSEA won yet another battle for survival... and then offered youngsters a chance to make their dreams come true.

As the Third Division crisis club won a six-week stay of execution in the High Court, player-manager Tommy Hutchison opened his doors to aspiring young players. He has offered trials to any youngsters wishing to make the break into full-time soccer.

WATT'S WHISPERS

● NOBODY could help but be amazed at the Irish logic which led to Jack Charlton being named as manager of Eire... after he had polled only three votes while nine were cast in favour of Bob Paisley.

Think about it, was there ever any chance of Eire being managed by a guy called Paisley?!

THERE have been hints that the Scottish Football Association will handle only 15,000 tickets — half their usual allocation — for the England v Scotland match at Wembley on April 23.

It is suggested it is due to lack of demand from North of the border. Who is kidding who? Thanks to the Government's later-than-late intervention which deprived the fans of last year's trip, the coffers of the countless Wembley savings clubs have been swollen by a further year's savings.

And, knowing of many friends who have made arrangements to have a week off work to coincide with the match, I am confident the 'Tartan Army' will be on the march in its usual numbers come April.

Of course, cynics say the genuine punters seldom get so much as a sniff of the SFA's allocation... and there are not many who will argue with that!

However, regardless of the source of their tickets, the fans are going to have to dig deep to meet the prices recently set by our mutual friend Ted Coker.

Top whack for a stand seat is £25, with other seats coming at £20, £15 and £9, and a place on the terracing costing £6.

Having been saving for this match since 1983, Scottish fans are hardly likely to quibble too much about the prices but, remembering that the meeting is now no more than a trumped-up friendly, the cost of tickets does appear to be somewhat unfriendly.

GARY FITS THE BILL

HEARTS' energetic midfielder Gary Mackay showed his Tynecastle team-mates a clean pair of heels when he scooped a 'Super Fit' award following his club's 3-2 Scottish Cup win over Rangers.

The star's boundless energy earned him the Scottish Health Education's 'Mr Superfit' 'Man of the Match' award.

He's seen here being presented with a special plaque by Health Education Group director Stanley Mitchell (right) and Sandy Finlay, chairman of the Lothian Health Board.

Davie quits

DUMBARTON'S 4-0 defeat at Forfar was the final straw for manager Davie Wilson.

Having seen his team slide from the top of the league to fifth place, the former Rangers and Scotland winger decided it was time to move on and he tendered his resignation.

"Lately things have not been working out well at Boghead," Davie explains. "But I feel the club can still get back into the promotion race and win a place in the Premier Division."

'Bad boy' boss

FORMER soccer 'bad boy' Willie Johnston is set to become a manager.

The tempestuous former West Brom, Rangers and Scotland star — sent off 15 times between January 1969 and March 1983 — is expected to be named as player-manager of Second Division Raith.

SPECTRUM 48K

THE most basic of all the managerial games, Liverpool is the slowest to operate and the least rewarding in terms of sound or graphics. You manage Liverpool through a First Division season. The FA Cup, Milk Cup and four rounds of the European Cup.

There are 30 skill levels and you have to choose your team according to skill, stamina levels and formation. You can also spy on the opposition. But the matches are almost instant, with results just popping up (no tense waiting!). Not recommended unless you're a real Liverpool nut!
Price £8.45 — £14.95 (disc).

MATCH SCANS THE ## MANAGERIAL GAMES

IN these games you manage your own team, but once you've chosen your team you have to sit back and watch the match from the bench! Whole games take several hours and can become compulsive!

Each game has the following basics: you can name your own teams and players but you always start at the beginning of a season. Each player varies in skill level, form, morale and value on the transfer market. Your team plays a whole season and each week league tables are shown. You can choose varying levels at which to play, from beginners to experienced.

BIG LEAGUE SOCCER

Amstrad

ALMOST as hard as United but much clearer graphics and simpler format. You have a choice of colours and any of 88 teams, and the game tells you the strength of the opposition, which is very useful.

The principles are the same as the other games, but this has up-to-date First Division players available (even if the prices are crazy — only £25,000 for Gary Bailey!) and more in-built uncertainties, such as injuries and suspensions.

With 42 matches per season, the game is demanding, especially as you have to pick your side from scratch before each match (rather than make changes from the previous match). There are, though, unnecessary errors. Hateley was spelt wrongly, for example.

Price £6.95.

THE BOSS

CBM 64, CBM 16, Amstrad, Spectrum, BBC B, MSX, Electron (also available as CHAMPIONS for the Dragon).

IT'S the age of the computer and this week MATCH — the magazine that is always first with the new ideas — brings you the first of an exclusive two-part guide to the best in football computer games. There are more than 20 different

COMPUTER GAMES MARKET

THIS straightforward game has a 38-game season, plus FA Cup and European matches, and offers certain advantages over its rivals. For example, your club finances are more realistic; they include fines, donations, rate demands, programme sales. I even had to pay £13,000 for riot damage!

Easier to play than most, its faults are that the actual matches are represented only by lists of scorers appearing as the minutes tick away quickly, and that providing you have enough money you can buy any player you want from your next week's opponents, and thus weaken their side. Nevertheless, highly recommended.
Price £6.95 — £8.95.

FOOTBALL QUIZZES

THESE packages offer a variety of questions on football past and present. You pit your wits against the computer, but you can also organise tournaments with your friends.

IF there was a Bells Award for managerial computer games, this would be the outright winner. By far the most popular on the market. Football Manager has the advantage of good graphics for the match section (best seen on the CBM 64), although after a few hours playing you'll wish you could fast-forward to the final whistle.

In many ways the game is not as sophisticated as its rivals. Squads have a maximum of 16 players, which with injuries can be a problem. The transfer market gives you very little scope and you have to be really appalling to get sacked.

On the other hand, it is easier to get the hang of this game. Recommended.
Price £5.95 — £7.95.

THE ULTIMATE SOCCER QUIZ

Spectrum

GOOD for brainy youngsters, this straightforward quiz simply gives you five possible answers to every question. There are ten categories, and full marks in any puts you through to a more demanding European section.

Inexplicably, between rounds there are score flashes from a fictitious game between Everton and Spurs.
Price £6.95.

ROTHMANS FOOTBALL QUICK QUIZ

Spectrum

ALTHOUGH the version I played was totally mixed up, so that the non-League section was all about the FA Cup and the European questions were all about soccer trivia, I learned a lot from this quiz. Every answer is followed by an explanation or further facts.

You can play against the clock, and up to four people can play in the same quiz.
Price £9.95.

SOFTWARE

ACTION GAMES

THESE are games in which you actually play a simulated game of football, either against the computer or a friend.

BOBBY CHARLTON SOCCER

BBC B, Electron.

IN two parts; first you select your team according to its strengths and formations, then you play the match.

Unfortunately the instructions don't make it clear how to get from one stage to the other (you have to press Q). The match itself is also rather difficult. The ball is tiny, goalkeeping is almost impossible and long-range goals are too easy. But then the game is endorsed by the former England and Manchester United hot-shot Bobby Charlton. He recites his own message of encouragement. A good idea is the chance to join Bobby's Computer Soccer Club.

Price £11.95.

SPOT THE BALL

Atari

A JOINT package with snooker, for joysticks only, this can be played by one to four people. Graphics are basic and the pitch too long and thin, but the players move up well and after each goal a defender carries the ball back to the centre-spot. Not worth buying an Atari computer especially for this but, if you already have one, it's reasonable value.
Price £9.95.

FIVE-A-SIDE SOCCA

BBC B, Electron.

NEEDS two players, preferably with joysticks. Each team moves four players at a time, but the ball can only be kicked when in motion so there's no time for resting. Ricochets off the sides are fast and unpredictable, so you must also be very quick. Could it be a training aid for Sheffield Wednesday? A good basic game with no frills.
Price £1.99.

INTERNATIONAL FOOTBALL

CBM 64 (also in 64 mode on Commodore 128).

TOP of the league without question! Simple to use, it has the clearest 3-D graphics, offers the closest control and the most options. You can change your team colours (although it's a shame that both teams play in black shorts), and choose one of nine skill levels (start at one). Players head the ball and the ball bounces with a convincing thud. Another strong point is the facility to make your 'keeper dive about the goal. This was the only action game I wanted to play for more than 20 minutes, yet the designer, Andrew Spencer, apparently knew nothing about football apart from what he read in a rule book! World-wide sales of the game top quarter of a million. Highly recommended.
Price £14.99 (cartridge only).

GLENN HODDLE SOCCER

Amstrad.

WELL-DESIGNED game for joystick only with clear instructions. You choose length of game, skill levels and whether or not you want computer aid. Movement tends to be up and down more than diagonal, and I found it too easy to score own goals and walk the ball into the net. Also, the goalies don't wear different coloured shirts. Best with two players and worth considering.
Price £8.95 cassette or £12.95 disc.

CHINESE legend has it, that hundreds of years before the birth of Christ, the Buddha gave a party for all the animals of his kingdom.

Only 12 turned up and the Buddha rewarded them by giving each a year and decreeing that all people born in that year would inherit the animals' characteristics. And on February 10, 1986 we entered the 'Year of the Tiger'.

MATCH investigates the effect of Eastern astrology on the fortunes of our footballing stars... and leaves you to make up your own mind.

TIGERS' FORTUNES

MATCH spotlights a few of football's 'Tigers' and analyses their lucky year...

TERRY GIBSON

STILL celebrating a 'dream' move from Coventry to Manchester United following a good season for goals at Highfield Road. And there may be more to savour in the shape of a Championship medal come May.

DUNCAN SHEARER

INJURIES and suspension in the Chelsea camp have finally given Duncan his big break in the first team and that could lead to an extended run or even a move which would guarantee first team action.

PAUL WALSH

SO FAR overlooked by England boss Bobby Robson as a possible late call-up for Mexico, but don't back against it. Enjoying a great season at Liverpool where he has struck up a fine partnership with Ian Rush and a great chance of 'double' honours in League and Cup.

STEVE HODGE

ENJOYING a fine year personally following a move to Aston Villa from Nottingham Forest at the back end of 1985. Every chance of a place in the England squad and still on course for a Wembley appearance with Villa in the Milk Cup.

PHIL PARKES

ENJOYING one his best seasons for years... and so are West Ham as they string together their most effective Championship challenge for a long time.

PAUL ALLEN

ENJOYED a dream move to join cousin Clive at Tottenham in the close season, and while the first half of the season can hardly be described as a great success, this year could see him fulfil his real potential.

Phil Parkes — best season.

Spurs lift the FA Cup in the 'Year of the Cockerel'.

WHAT'S IN A YEAR?

● LAST year it was the 'Year of the Buffalo' and 'Buffalo' John Clayton of Tranmere was the League's joint top scorer with 31 goals!
● IN 1923 it was the 'Year of the Pig' and Bolton — nicknamed the 'Trotters' — went on to win the FA Cup!
● NORWICH skipper Dave Watson lifted the Milk Cup in 1985 in his year — the 'Year of the Buffalo'.

● IPSWICH, whose club crest features the horse, upset all the odds to beat Arsenal in the 1978 FA Cup Final... in the 'Year of the Horse'!
● SCOTTISH striker Graeme Sharp scored Everton's opening goal and picked up an FA Cup winners' medal against Watford in the 'Year of the Rat'... his Chinese star sign.

Kevin 'Ratty' Ratcliffe lifts the FA Cup in the 'Year of the Rat'.

TIGERS' YEAR

Stories
by
PAUL
STRATTON

Gary Swann — lucky year.

IN 1981 it was the 'Year of the Rooster'... and the White Hart Lane cockerel was crowing as Spurs lifted the FA Cup.

In 1984 it was the 'Year of the Rat'... and it was Ratty himself (alias Everton skipper Kevin Ratcliffe) who led the 'Toffeeemen' to Wembley glory.

And in 1985 it was the 'Year of the Buffalo'... and Oxford United, whose club emblem depicts an ox, were promoted to Division One for the first time in their history.

FOLLOW THE SIGNS

YOUR sign... and your lucky years. Simply find the year you were born and read across for your sign.

RAT	1948	1960	1972	1984
BUFFALO	1949	1961	1973	1985
TIGER	1950	1962	1974	1986

DOG	1958	1970	1982	1994
PIG	1959	1971	1983	1995

Coincidence? Maybe. But who is to say that the 'Tigers' of Hull City will not have something to celebrate at the end of the season. In this, the 'YEAR OF THE TIGER'.

And if they do, could it be — just like Oxford last year — that they have made club history by achieving First Division Soccer?

Sixth in Division Two with 14 matches to play, Hull obviously have a bit of catching up to do on the leaders.

But with a bit of Eastern astrology on their side, anything can happen.

And defender Gary Swann — a 'Tiger' through and through due to the fact he was born in 1962 (see table left) — is set to play a major role in what is his special year.

When MATCH contacted him and suggested it might be that the stars are on his side, Gary said: "I just hope the Chinese have got it right!"

CLOSE THE GAP

"It's not anything I've really thought about but we can all do with a little help from time to time.

"I certainly believe we are good enough to go up this season and there are plenty of matches left for us to close the gap on the top clubs.

"It's up to us to go out there and prove it."
